

This is what's happening in Cohousing Now!

CohoUS continues to work at keeping our community of communities connected through Covid.

In particular we have put a lot of energy and creativity into keeping education and events going without in person gatherings. Some live events have become online events, some have been re-imagined completely. Some have been delayed and online offerings filled in. The best part is that through it all, we cohousers are seeing more and more of each other, which is exactly what we're all about.

See you soon!

WebChat on Aug 13 6pm Mtn with Daisy Birch

As an introduction to our upcoming Community for All online conference (on August 23), Daisy will be guiding us in how white allies can engage productively and profoundly in anti-racism work, in ways that can be life-changing.

The program for the evening will include a short video followed by small group discussions and an informative (sometimes entertaining) Cultural Awareness Resource Menu.

Community For All Online Conference

Sunday August 23 10am - 4pm Mtn

Inviting, Celebrating and Leveraging Our Many Differences.

There are many types and layers of diversity and inclusion in cohousing. How do we invite diversity? How do we work well with all types of people? What benefits and challenges does diversity bring? What tools, skills and strategies promote a sense of belonging?
