SAGE Senior Cohousing Advocates Joins CohoUS

Cohousing changed my life. I experienced firsthand what it meant to be held and supported by my neighbors, and in an especially fragile time in my life. And I know I'm not alone. Every day I hear stories of people who found community and never went back to the individualistic "American Dream." I am moved by stories of those who experienced the benefit of cohousing in their own lives and committed to creating similar opportunities for others.

We need community at all stages of our lives. Children deserve to be raised within a cocoon of individuals who care for their wellbeing and demonstrate varying forms of humanity and morality. Young adults are able to thrive because they experience the support and wisdom of their elders. A new retiree can create meaning and contribute to causes they care about, alongside new friends. Community is for everyone, and our society benefits from individuals choosing a more collective way of living.

I am thrilled to announce that SAGE Senior Cohousing Advocates will be joining with CohoUS in an effort to expand our efforts and maximize our impact. This merger, under the umbrella of the Cohousing Association of the US, will streamline processes, broaden our reach and support our commitment to community for all.

SAGE was established with the goal of helping seniors find and create cohousing. As a result of this merger, CohoUS will be better equipped to support senior cohousing communities as well as seniors in multigenerational cohousing. We have established a Senior Cohousing Committee which will organize under SAGE's core principles:

- We believe that vibrant communities of people result in increased pleasure in life, vitality and life-long learning.
- We believe that a space is defined by dimensions other than mere physical measurements like height, width and depth. A well-designed community and interior create an atmosphere that expresses your values, views and life philosophy.
- We bring a combination of ingenuity, curiosity and on-demand creativity to our work with communities and leaders – all focused on delivering clarity from the inside out

The Science of Cohousing

The latest from the Cohousing Research Network

The Cohousing Research Network (CRN) invites you to take an online survey to further the understanding of the effects of cohousing on the lives of residents, its wider social impacts, and challenges faced by developing communities. This is the first phase of a five-year annual survey. The results should help the movement to make the case for cohousing with typically recalcitrant financial and political institutions. We need as much participation as possible!

The survey is for residents of established communities and for members of building/forming groups, including groups that are inactive.□
